Even though we all call it Split airport it is far from the truth. Split airport is based in Kaste Stafilic which is 7th of the small Kastela towns stretching from Split to Trogir. Split airport is also much closer to Trogir than it is to Split and yet we still call it Split airport.

There is a simple explanation for this. Split is the largest city on the Adriatic coast and most travelers arriving at Split's airport are looking for the way to transfer from Split airport to Split city center or to number of Split's hotels. Many of them are looking for a transfer from Split airport to Split ferry port from where they go int exploring numerous island around Split or even further.

From Split Airport to Split city center you can get by taxi, mini van or bus transportation service in about 40 minutes during summer season but that could be lot faster this summer because of newly built roads from Split airport to Split city center.
